

On the Nature of Things

- 23 - "such are the crimes to which religion leads"
- 25 - "and all from all" re: innocence, determinism
- 26 - "Confess then, naught from nothing"
- 26 - "Here too it comes" re: conservation of energy
- 32 - "name o'er creation" re: reductionism, atoms/void
- 33 - "and thus thou canst" re: emergent structures
- 39 - "for whither we shall make" re: empiricism
- 48 - "or rather, in fact" re: clinamen
- 58 - "In these affairs" & Clinamen quote
- 70 - "And here, whose" re: religion/nature
- 71 - "Thus happens surely;" re: metabolism
- 71 - "so must their atoms be" re: ~~new~~ nucleides, nuclear composition
- 72 - "But, if perchance it seem" re: color, perception
- 74 - "Besides, since colors cannot be" re: color, perception
- 74 - "and since the pupil" re: photoreception
- 84 - "for whatsoever thou seest" re: endo/exothermic, metabolism
- 88 - "first, then, I say" re: non-dualism
- 94 - "Not tis easy, from lumps" re: mind/body emergence
- 95 - "Herein these affairs" re: Democritus
- 99 - "for not only are the" re: antiquated logic, body/soul
- 99 - "Thus, since within the body" re: afterlife
- 105 - "wherefore it seems that soul" re: body/soul
- 116 - "Eternal death shall be" re: death, eternity, ^{good}quote
- 120 - "for it can't go" re: color/optics
- 130 - "Thou'lt find that from the senses" re: empiricism
- 142 - "Now, how it comes that we" re: engrams, active inference
- 152 - "Happens too that sometimes" re: genetics, recessive genes
- 188 - "yet were man to ~~steer~~" re: ~~epicureanism~~ epicureanism
- 195 - "Now, Memmius, how nature" re: iron/copper

199 - "but thus began the loathing of the acorn" & re: good great

213 - "This, this it is, O Mammies" re: secularism, hubris